Bethel selectmen object to Savage MDOT signs

By ALISON ALOISIO

"Somebody got to the top," said Chairman Stan Howe.

Bethel selectmen reacted at Monday's board meeting to the news last week that by order of Gov. Paul LePage and the Commissioner of the Department of Transportation, two temporary MDOT directional signs would be erected on Route 2 on either side of the Sunday River Road intersection, to point the way to the Black Diamond Steakhouse.

Steakhouse owners Ron and Rick Savage have said the town was being too slow in implementing its recently-amended sign ordinance, costing them the opportunity to advertise their business in the summer months.

Bethel has a memorandum of understanding with MDOT allowing the town to administer directional signs on state routes.

But Town Manager Jim Doar said the state's move violates the town ordinance approved by townspeople, as well as the state's own permitting process.

He described the action as "unconscionable," but said Bethel's only recourse would be to sue the state. He didn't recommend that. "We'd be tilting at windmills," he said.

Selectman Don Bennett said the message from MDOT was that the town could go ahead and try to stop the signs from being in-

Land abutting war monument goes to Bethel

By ALISON ALOISIO

The parcel of land behind Bethel's Civil War monument on Lower Main Street now belongs to the town.

Town Manager Jim Doar told selectmen Monday that the lot was "tax acquired."

"That was our original desire, to have that land, and we couldn't get it. And now we have it by default," said Board Chair Stan Howe.

A 19th-century house that had stood on the property burned down in 1991.

Doar suggested the town contact Bethel American Legion Post 81 about possibly locating a veterans' memorial there.

Over the past few years the Legion has been making plans for such a memorial on Bethel Fire Station land, behind the Bethel Common.

Paving bid awarded

In other business Monday, selectmen chose Bruce A. Manzer Inc. to do paving work on several town roads. Manzer bid $355,231. The only other bidder was Pike Industries, at $369,631. The board approved the bid by a 4-1 vote. Selectman Pat Carter objected to Doar's recommendation and the majority approval to waive a performance bond for Manzer.

Among the roads to be paved are Flat, Bailey and Bird Hill roads and Sunset and Riverside lanes. Work is expected to take place this fall.

TMS gets grant

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Telstar MELMAC project has received a new middle school grant to aid its efforts to encourage students to pursue post-secondary education.

The decade-old program is also benefiting at the high school level from the expertise of Kathy Ruby, a college financial aid consultant and wife of Gould Academy Head of School Matt Ruby.

Grant administrator/Project Opportunity Executive Director Ted Davis and Karen Bean, a MELMAC coach, updated the SAD 44 School Board on the program at a recent meeting.

MELMAC, the Maine Educational Loan Marketing Corporation, supports initiatives that increase educational opportunities for Maine people.

For the past 10 years Telstar High School has received funding to take students to visit colleges, prepare for entrance tests, make post-secondary plans, and follow through with them. Eighth-graders have also been included on college visits.

Last summer THIS received a four-year, $10,500-a-year MELMAC grant to continue those efforts.

The program applied last year for a grant to encourage middle school students to "be involved in talking about post-secondary education," Davis, the former principal of Telstar High School, said then.

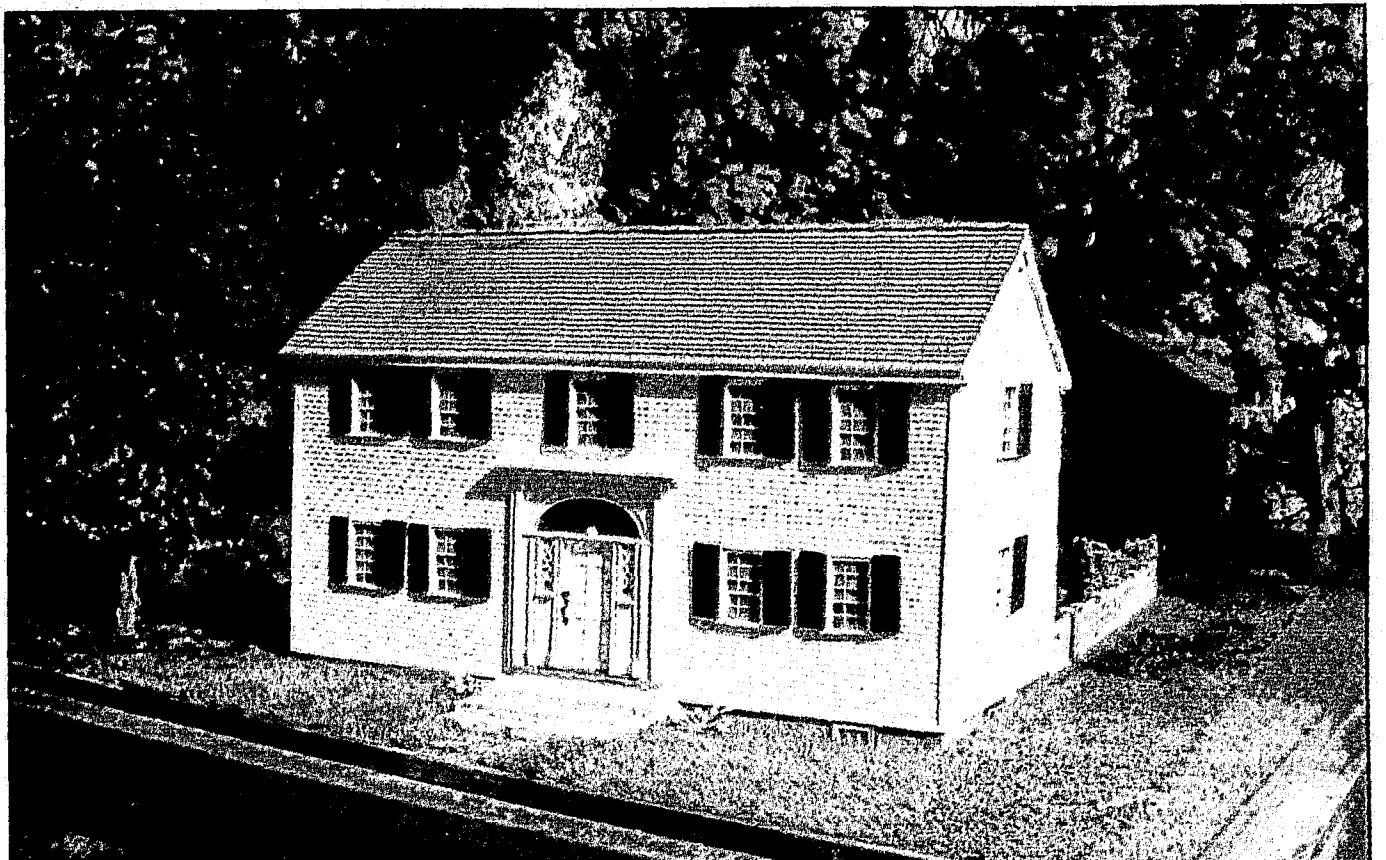

He received notification in late April that Telstar was one of five out of 30 applicants that would receive grant money.

The four-year MELMAC Partnership grant provides $8,400 a year.

The school will be helping to break new ground in the lower grades, Davis said. There are cur-

Moses Mason in miniature

A model of the Dr. Moses Mason House, commemorating the 200th anniversary commemoration of the beginning of its construction, was unveiled recently at the Bethel Historical Society. The model was created by Jim Auman, who has done other such models for BHS. As part of the unveiling Randy Bennett, BHS executive director, presented some history and interesting facts about the Mason House. The house was erected on land that was a swamp before 1813; it was unusual for its time and location for not having a center-chimney plan, which allowed heat to radiate out from the middle of the house into surrounding spaces; it was the first house in the village painted white and had a framework so high on a granite foundation that Dr. Mason's neighbors urged him to lower the house to prevent high winds from damaging it; it was the home of Dr. and Mrs. Mason from 1813 until Mrs. Mason's death in 1869, the period chosen to interpret in the period rooms; the house (the oldest today at Bethel Hill village) and grounds were renovated and restored in 1972-73 by the Bingham Trust, which presented the property to the Bethel Historical Society in memory of William Bingham 2nd, the town's great 20th century philanthropist; the house served as Bethel's first post office, with Dr. Mason as the town's first postmaster, serving in the years 1815-1833; bare wooden floors, even in rooms with elaborate woodwork, were popular in restorations carried out in the 1970s and to present a more accurate picture of the way the Masons lived, the floors in the front hall way, parlor and dining room should probably be painted or carpeted; the house was the first structure in Oxford County nominated to the National Register of Historic Places; the house combines a "restoration" aimed at bringing the front portion back to its 19th century appearance, and a "renovation" that includes the barnboard walls, recessed lighting and wall-to-wall carpeting on the second floor of the barn. The model is now on display in the BHS Robinson House, next door.

Citizen profiles: Arlene Harrington, 90

By CHERRI CROCKETT

Anyone who knows Arlene Harrington of East Bethel knows that she holds nothing back and is very matter-of-fact.

Whatever is on her mind comes out of her mouth, and you are all the better for listening and not arguing back. If you don't like what she says, well, according to her, "you don't have to listen."

In her small kitchen where she once shared coffee with her husband, Chester, and fed breakfast to their five daughters, the sun-filled morning is just beginning to filter through the windows. Arlene laughs at the thought of having a newspaper article written about her.

"What's so interesting about me, anyway? Is it because I'm the oldest in East Bethel? I just don't see what the big deal is."

Arlene turned 90 years young on May 3, when she was celebrated by her family at her house, complete with a "Honk! Nana's 90" sign at the end of her driveway. "I don't know which fool was responsible for that," Arlene laughs. "But I have that sign in my shed and I'm just waiting to see the culprit who's responsible to come and get it."

Arlene was born in 1923 to Ralph and Ruth Remington on their farm in Andover, which once stood just beyond Crockett Bridge on the East B Hill Road. The homestead was lost to fire years ago.

Maine speak. "I just don't understand what people see in the cities. Best place to live is right here. I love it here. The city is not for me. I wouldn't give a nickel for in 1941. Soon after his return from the service, they moved into his childhood home with his mother to help with the farm after his father had passed on.

"Once you live on a farm, I just don't understand how you can live anywhere else. We had cows and pigs; we had a big old garden down in the field. That was the way it was back then. We grew our own food and canned it for the winter."

Fiddling with the side of the hand-stitched table cloth on her small table, Arlene remembers back to her school years before she moved to East Bethel.

She attended elementary school until the fifth grade at the old school that stood on the other side of Crockett Bridge in Andover. "When I went into the fifth grade I had to start walking two miles to the elementary school in town. I went there until I graduated high school," she said.

Arlene only had eight classmates throughout her school years and recalls that there's hardly anyone left who attended school with her. "There's no sense crying over spilled milk. Some just live longer."

Arlene has set a goal to live to 100. "Why not, I always told myself if I made it to 50, then I can make it to a place in the city." Arlene and her husband, Chester, were married

MOLLYOCKETT DAYS LOGISTICS

To the Editor:

MollyOckett Day has arrived, and the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce staff, board members and the MollyOckett Day Task Force have been working diligently to help ensure a successful, safe, and memorable day for everyone! We still are seeking volunteers to join our team at the event – so if you are interested, please contact us!

Here are a few reminders about the logistics of the day:

1. Parking for folks with limited mobility is available from 9 am – 2 pm in the Bethel Inn Conference Center parking lot, which can be accessed from Mason and Broad Sts. A road guard will be allowing access, on a first come-first served basis to ONLY those who really need the close access. If you have not already done so, please come to the Chamber office between 9 am – 5 pm to pick up a parking pass.

2. Residents of Spring St. will have two-way access on MollyOckett Day while Main Street is closed to vehicles – from 7 am – 5 pm.

3. Residents of Philbrook St. will not have vehicular access (except for emergencies) during the hours Main St. is closed.

4. Access to the Bethel Post Office and the Bethel Shop & Save will be open all day from the Elm St. entrance. That parking lot needs to be maintained for customers only – please park there if you are shopping in the grocery store or accessing the Post Office.

5. We need to make sure that everyone stays safe during the Parade. PLEASE keep your children and grandchildren close by you as the floats and trucks are passing by. It has been a tradition for many years to throw candy from the floats and fire trucks. We do not want anyone getting hurt in their attempt to pick up candy in the road!

6. We are making every attempt to make our events as environmentally sustainable as possible. We will supply containers for recyclables – such as cardboard as well as cans & bottles (that we give to the school groups who do bottle drives). Please help us by using the recycling containers – and keeping the Common and Main St. free of trash!

We would like to thank the many businesses and residents of the Bethel Village area for being willing to, at some inconvenience, allow the festival to expand on to Main Street. If you have any questions, please contact the Chamber office at 824-2282.

REMEMBERING SAM CHAPMAN

To the Editor:

Our family came to know and love Sam in the 1980's when he preformed at DW McKens when we owned it, which is now White Cap Lodge at Sunday River. Our daughter, Litty Parker, managed the restaurant and bar and Sam preformed there many nights. One of our favorite songs he wrote was "The Life of Riley".

We also hosted a business Christmas party at the Eastland Hotel in Portland and Sam and his band, including Jewel Clark, played the night away, everyone was on the dance floor from start to finish! Our guests thought we had imported a band from Boston! They rocked the house and it was a night to remember for sure!

We also remember him with his Dad and brothers golfing late in the afternoon at the Bethel Inn after work, always with a big smile and a powerful striking swing!

He was part of the wonderful Bethel community, and contributed to it in so many kind, musical and thoughtful ways.

We send our sympathy to his entire family and friends. He will be missed, but never forgotten.

ROTARY CLUB YARD SALE UPDATES

To the Editor:

The Rotary Club of Bethel's annual yard sale and auction was once again a success. We raised over $12,000 this year, all of which will go toward Rotary's charitable endeavors, mostly local. Scholarships are a prime example.

Whereas most yard sales ask you to bring your donations to them the day before the yard sale, Bethel Rotary will accept donations at any time of year; call me at 653-9297. We can pick up these donated items, store them, and each June with help from the 4H Camp staff, transfer them to beneath four enormous tents on the Telstar lawn. Of course, if your stuff can stay where it is until June, we'd prefer that it go directly to Telstar.

We are pleased to accept tools, building supplies, hardware, usable furniture, DVDs, most books, housewares, toys, small appliances, and antiques.

However, we have learned over the years that some things do not sell, so we can no longer accept furniture in need of repair, large appliances, pianos, exercise machines, luggage, ski equipment, computers, televisions, tires, textbooks, encyclopedias, or clothing.

We trust that everybody will understand these exclusions, and that they will continue to support and enjoy our annual yard sale and auction.

MISCONCEPTIONS

To the Editor:

My response to the deluge of unwarranted and questionable negativity levied against the present administration and the present day Democratic ideology, might understandably invite the misconception that I am an irrevocably hard core Democratic pundit. My prime allegiance is dedicated to that of being an American and what being an American should be and mean to the collective citizenry of this nation. I pledge no blind allegiance to any terminology that refers to any specific political entity. The extreme exception I take to those whose allegiance is dedicated more to party than it is to nation, is subject to reconsideration if I can be convinced where it is that I am amiss in my thinking.

At eighty plus years of age I have had plenty of occasions to observe the venomous contortions of the political fray from the vantage point of an unbiased sideline. Lately these observations have sponsored grave concerns as to what a once viable Republican party has now evolved into. When in the process of a Republican primary campaign, Grover Norquist, a corporate lobbyist, backed by the monetary might of all the corporate and special interest groups, comes on national TV and in plain English proclaims that a Republican candidate for any political office that does not sign his no tax pledge and does not intend to legislate only in the best interest of their financial campaign benefactors, will not prevail in their bid to become the Republicans candidate. More consequential and disturbing than that, is his contention that the only credential that a future Republican President would have to possess would be the ability to wield a pen to sign the bills that would be presented to him by a handpicked Republican Congress. Consequently it seems as though a hierarchy of a Republican party that is dedicated only to the best interests of the corporate and special interest groups, would be leaving the mainstream Republican electorate floundering in a sea of disenfranchised uncertainty.

Don Chase
Bethel

STANDS BY WHAT HE WROTE

To the Editor:

Herewith is my response to Mr. Chase's letter of July 4.

I'm so pleased Don Chase's pen has again expanded my vocabulary through another stream of enlightening adjectives in his latest vilification of Republicans. And my words of June 20 are volatile?

I too, stand by what I write, and contrary to Mr. Chase's inference in his letter of the 4th, my words concerning the destructive course this country is being led on, are not untrue or distorted, and can easily be substantiated. Regarding unnamed accusations (his words) I named two who do seek total gun control, else why is the U.S. a signatory on the U.N. Agenda 21 document.

What vagueness? Mr. Chase deduced the 1935 European nation as being Germany, so he should be able to see the parallel total gun control creates without someone having to spell it out in plain English.

If I knew the names of the dozens of office czars Obama has appointed to augment his administration staff, such as his jobs czar who as CEO of General Electric X-ray Division moved the headquarters staff from Wisconsin to China at the time of being appointed, I'd have listed names, but there are just too darned many of them. And a jobs czar sending U.S. jobs to another country is an act of participating in the chipping away of the American labor and economic infrastructure, no matter how one slices it.

Label me a "frenzied Republican," but possibly I'm a frustrated Democrat who doesn't agree with the party line nor some of its elected members, and to continue further response to Mr. Chase's adjective-laden missiles would only be qualifying his dislike of anyone choosing not to board Obama's bandwagon.

'What do you do all winter?'

This is the season that I "waste time" doing experimental cooking, go over collections of recipes, try, and either save or discard. The results are usually good and I regret not sharing my efforts with my gourmet friends who get such short shrift in the summertime. It is even difficult to have a local dinner party because ice or snow can block the road. The French black iron soup pot with the porcelain lining simmers on the back of the stove day and night. Into it go variable combinations of bones, outer cabbage leaves, leftover vegetable juices, water and dried mushrooms have been soaked in. I plan to remember the contents as sometimes it comes out such a savory soup that I would be willing to duplicate it for special friends once in the summertime, but never yet have I been able to do.

We make all kinds of ice cream in an old gallon hand-turning freezer, using snow for ice. We leave it out in the snowbanks outside to mellow; the bottom of the can is always the best. We get raw milk, sour it and make cottage cheese; the whey left over makes the lightest biscuits known. I make candied orange and grapefruit peel for next year's Christmas pudding, the year's supply of English marmalade. It simmers on the back of the stove all day and ends up with a bitter-sweet flavor that lingers on when you eat it like overtones in music. Make lobster salad from haddock boiled in home-canned tomatoes and a few secret ingredients...bake beans in the slow wood oven, steam brown bread. The kitchen is filled with fragrant odors and one can recapture the same fleeting but soul-sustaining pleasure as from the summer's sun slow sleeping on flower-strewn meadows.

100. You just gotta do it. It's a goal. I'm gaining. I'm the oldest person in East Bethel, aren't I?"

She was asked what she attributes making it to 90 to, and what she's going to do to make it another 10 years.

Arlene laughs, "There's no thinking about it. Don't put thought into things like age and how you got here. It's just something you do and you keep on living no matter what. No sense in worrying about when your time is gonna be here. I always tell my kids that He is gonna take me when He wants to and it doesn't matter where I am. Sometimes the kids don't like the way I answer them. But I don't know why I should listen to them, they don't listen to me."

Arlene enjoys being outside and mentions that her kids worry about her being in the woods by herself and that something might happen. She tells me that she assures them, "You'll eventually find me. Don't worry so much."

Arlene still enjoys mowing her own lawn, tending to her much-smaller garden than in the days of raising a family, and in the winter getting out for some cross country skiing.

"Those two skis don't take nothin' to start," said Arlene. "You just put your feet in and go. Nothing like that old snowmobile (that she drove around until two winters ago), it cost money to run and it's a hassle to start half the time. Heck, this winter the crust on the snow was so hard, I just took my skis off and walked. I did a few laps down there across the field, came up here and went around and it felt good."

In her younger years, she hunted, hiked and picked berries.

"One time Chester and I went hunting and he sat on the top ledge and I sat down below. I heard something coming and looked down over and it was a bear. I watched that thing for the longest time and when it was gone I went up to Chester and asked if he saw the bear. He didn't answer me. There he was sleeping by the tree. If you sent him out hunting and he sat down, he would fall asleep. That man was always sleeping. He worked hard in the woods."

Another time, Arlene took their four-wheeler up into the woods to pick raspberries. She thought she heard something and it was a bear on the other hill at the foot of a maple tree. She got the four-wheeler, picked up her bucket and drove down a little ways. She sneaked back up through the trees and the bear was still there. So, she brought the berries back to the house and told Chester she was going back up to see if the bear was still there and he told her to stay put. Arlene didn't like that very much and had to be convinced by her husband that the animal could turn and chase her. She decided it was a good idea to let the bear be.

Glancing out her kitchen windows, Arlene said she hopes to have a cucumber in the next few days. "Wilma [her daughter] went away for a couple days and told me to watch for the cucumbers, they might be ready any day. Well, I guess I watched them darn things too close, because they didn't grow. Wilma and I have a bit of a competition to see who gets the first cucumber out of the garden. I hope I win."

Arlene enjoys gardening, but even more than the gardening, she enjoys making her own tomato juice from the fruits of her labor. "A couple of years ago I could have reached right out that kitchen window and picked tomatoes. The plants were so tall and did so well and then last year they got the blight. What a shame."

Being a hard worker and wanting to tend to her own lawn, Arlene has another sort of competition going with her other daughter, Gloria.

"I still have a push mower and I do what I can when I feel like it, but sometimes Gloria thinks it needs to be done sooner. So, as long as I'm here when she stops to argue that it's too long, I still get to do it. I tell her to just let me be. I'll do it when I'm good and ready."

Arlene said that she likes to get outside for two or three hours each day, but when the bugs are bad it takes a little creativity to be able to stand them. "I just start up the weed wacker," laughs Arlene. "It smokes so bad, nothing comes near me. Now, that's the way to enjoy the outdoors without the bugs pestering you."

Knowing that Arlene has plans to attend her nephew's pig roast on this day, we switch the conversation over to her family.

Chester and Arlene had five daughters; Judy, Esther, Gloria, Wilma and Dodi. The five daughters gifted their parents with 12 grandchildren, who added 18 great-grandchildren to the family. Chester passed away in 1992.

Wilma, living right next door, had two girls, Jennifer and Stacey. "Those are my girls," said Arlene. "I took care of those two while Wilma worked. We had a lot of fun and they still come around to visit often. Jen's girls come over all the time. We go sliding in the back field and have lots of fun."

Asked if anyone else holds an extra special place in her heart, as most grandparents do, Arlene reveals that Gloria's son, Aaron is a special one. "He is so good to me."

With five daughters, Arlene is always out and about visiting and invited to their houses for the holidays, but remembers a special Easter when Aaron invited her to his house.

"I went up and was sitting there visiting for a while and all of a sudden I spied this beautiful Easter lily in the corner near the door and asked who got that beautiful lily. Aaron looked at me and said, 'It's for you, Nana.' Well, I was so pleased. I told him he didn't have to get anything for me. He told me that he wished he could do more for me. I told him, that he has his own family to look out for and didn't have to worry about me."

But she agreed that as a mother, grandmother and great grandmother, she's always going to have some- one worrying about her - and that feels good.

stalled, but by the time the process was done the permanent town signs would be up and it would be a moot point.

"You kind of felt as though something was really in your face," he said. "[Being a selectman] is not an easy job to do, and it doesn't help any when your governor decides that it's a bad time for everybody and we're just going to overrule you."

The signs are now in place. But Doar didn't recommend letting the issue go. He said he would work on a statement for the board to send to MDOT, "in the strongest terms, for stepping over us. We will continue to press."

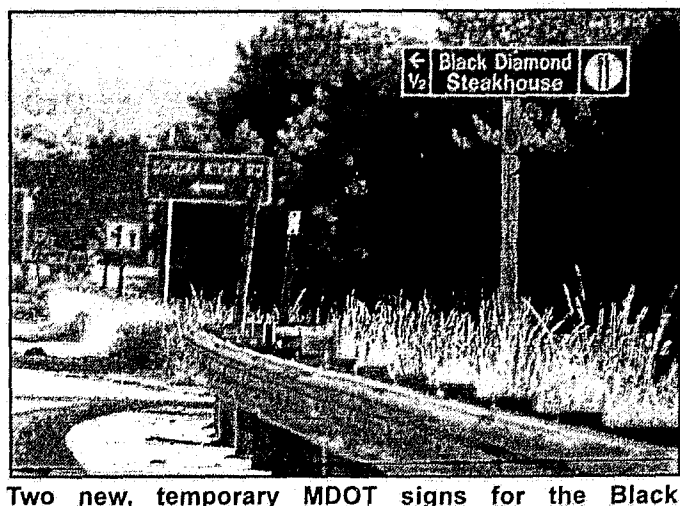

Doar also shared with the board letters the town and MDOT exchanged last week over the issue.

MDOT Chief Counsel Toni Kemmerle said in a July 11 letter that MDOT has the right to take action because the town's ordinance is "not fully operational and administrable," because the town has yet to contract with a sign manufacturer and installer.

The ordinance would become administrable when the town has a contract with a manufacturer/installer, and the temporary signs would then be removed, Kemmerle said.

Bethel had requested bids by July 10 for an eight-week timetable for completion - an "expedited" schedule, in Doar's words - but no bids were received.

MDOT also asked Doar to

Two new, temporary MDOT signs for the Black Diamond Steakhouse are now in place on Route 2. (Photo: A. Aloisio) sign an agreement with the Commissioner specifically for the two signs for the Black Diamond.

Doar said his response was "I don't think we're interested in an agreement, but we're certainly not interested in an agreement that limits it to just this. If you're going to install temporary signs, make every business in the town of Bethel eligible for it." "They said, 'No, we're not going to do that.'"

In a letter back to Kemmerle July 12, Doar said the ordinance is administrable and enforceable. "The town is prepared to begin issuing sign permits as soon as it receives applications," he said. He said there are no standards in the ordinance, the MOU or state law regarding the timeliness of the town's actions in putting up the signs.

"MDOT has failed to point to any legal authority that provides the ability for MDOT to interject into the Town's business directional sign program based upon a subjective measurement of reasonable time; particularly in light of the fact that the ordinance passed only one month ago and the Town has been working diligently and on an expedited basis to procure a contractor for the project."

Doar also said MDOT did not follow its own regulations in giving the Black Diamond a sign permit, noting the regulations require an applicant to "provide certification from an appropriate municipal official that the proposed sign is in conformity with all applicable municipal sign ordinances. I am not aware of any such certification being issued by the Town, nor would the Town be able to provide said certification."

Doar added the Black Diamond was the only business that contacted MDOT, and the only one that chose not to participate in the prior directional sign program. "It is Black Diamond's own actions that have left them without a legal business directional sign," he said.

In March Bennett said that the Savages had not requested a sign at the intersection of the Sunday River Road under the old program because they did not believe it worked.

As for the next step in contracting with a company to make signs for Bethel, selectmen Monday authorized Doar to talk to potential contractors and get price quotes. The board will hold a special meeting July 24 at 5 p.m. to approve a bidder.

The Way I See It

By Sharon Bouchard

I have never made a secret about how technologically ignorant I am. In fact, I've written several columns about it.

I have gotten a little better, but only a little. I can do a few more things on my computer than a few years ago, but a great deal of what my computer can do still alludes me. Even though I have had a computer for many years the mystery of all its functions has yet to be solved by me.

I do know how to put a movie in the DVD player, watch the television and push play on the remote control when prompted. I even know how to take the movie out and get the television back on cable. Beyond that I haven't a clue. The darn machine could solve the mystery of my computer and I wouldn't know about it.

My cell phone is rarely used and misplaced most of the time. However, I do know how to make a call on it when I have to and I even know how to add minutes when I'm running low. I do not know how to text, play any of the games it has or even access the voice mail.

Most electronic gadgetry just baffles me. I would feel inept, but I don't really have enough interest in such things to actually care.

I do get curious though when I see or hear things that I don't even understand what it is that I don't understand.

Take the "app" for example. I keep coming across things that encourage people to "download an app". One starts to feel that there is an "app" that is a magical connection to just about anything in the universe. Perhaps there is for all I know.

I was curious enough to ask my 14 year-old grandson to explain the mystery of the "app" craze to me. Elijah loves to explain things to me in techno-speak and watch my eyes glaze over. I guess it makes him feel superior and on such subjects he is.

He did explain, in more simple terms, that I could get "apps" for newspapers, magazines, weight loss programs, games, games and more games and so many other things.

I got to thinking that I would be a lot more interested if there was an "app" that would magically clean my house without my ever leaving my computer. That would certainly get my interest.

Or, how about an "app" that would take care of weeding the garden? Wouldn't that be something worth having an "app" for? I would do an "app" happy dance on that!

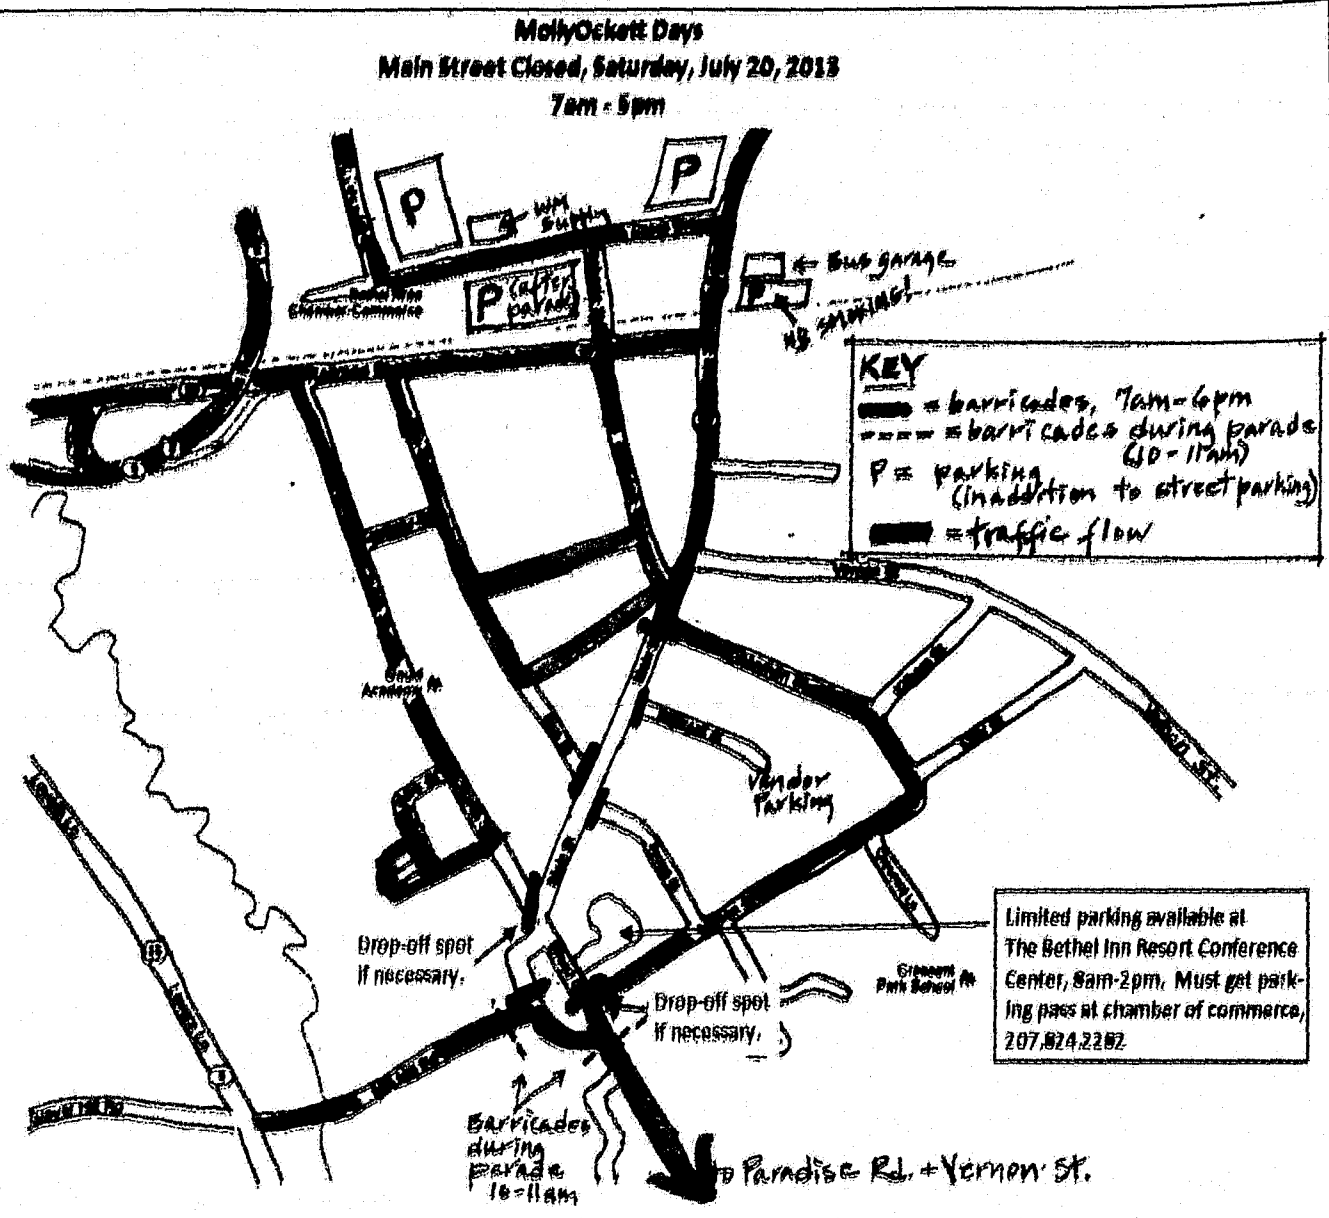

Imagine how great it would be if there was an "app" that could show my husband how wrong he is when our memories about certain incidents don't jive? For that matter a memory "app" would be a wonderful thing for everyone over 40 whose memories travel a little farther south with each passing year.

A finding "app" would be pretty spectacular too! On those occasions when I can't find my glasses or car keys or that important paper I laid down somewhere. I could just go to my computer or cell phone and click on the "app" for that and zap, there's the lost item.

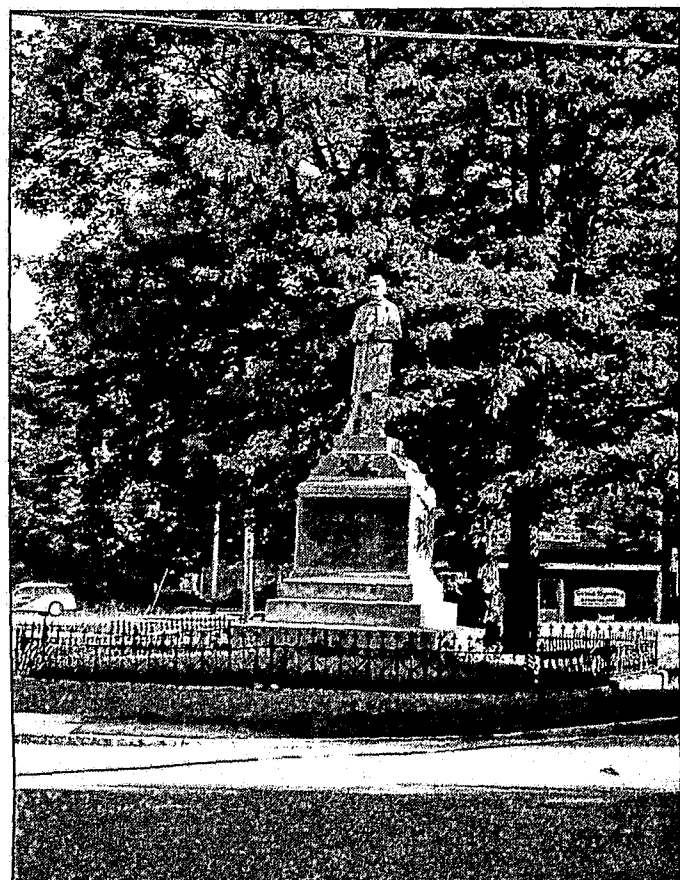

There a million practical things that having an "app" for would be much better than magazines or games.

I suppose if one spends a lot of time on their computer or cell phone all these various "apps" may be useful, but personally I have very little interest.

However, something easily accessible to help me solve the mysteries of my computer would be great and the way I see it may be if I contacted Microsoft they would tell me that they, in fact, have an "app" for that.

Some streets in Bethel Village will be closed Saturday, July 20, for MollyOckett Days. Barricades blocking streets are shown in black on the above map, while open streets are in green. For more information call the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce at 824-2444 or see Letter to the Editor, Page 2.

rently no standards for "best practices" at that level for promoting post-secondary interest, he said.

"This is a new area for MELMAC," he told directors.

He also said research has shown the importance of getting youngsters to think about post-secondary education or training from an early age.

The TMS program will focus on promoting more parental involvement, a sixth-grade orientation, experiences on college campuses and bringing in community members to talk to students about careers.

At the high school level, the program this past year utilized the skills of Ruby, who is experienced with working with financial aid packages for prospective college students and their parents.

Davis said some parents are fearful of signing the traditional Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form out of concern about the financial responsibility, and the hope is that Ruby can relieve some of their anxiety with her knowledge.

Supt. Dave Murphy said the MELMAC plans "will line up nicely" with a recently-approved grant designed to improve student and teacher performance in the district.

SAD 44 is one of five school systems that will share $25 million from the Maine Schools for Excellence Teacher Incentive Fund over five years.

In other business at the same meeting the board re-elected Lainey Cross of Bethel and Marcel Polak of Woodstock as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, and elected Roberta Taylor of Bethel as vice chairman pro tempore.

Bethel

By Donald G. Bennett

Coming Sewage Treatment Plant Improvements
Dewatering is the key function in changing Bethel sewage to pure water. Rob Gundersen showed me how the next step in plant upgrading will see the installation of a new electrically operated, German designed dewatering system inside a new building within the Bethel plant's grounds. When the building is completed during the next twelve months, Mr. Gundersen plans to also install photovoltaic solar panels on the south facing roof of the new building to help offset electric costs from operating the new dewatering system.

Right now the majority of sewage passing through the system is dewatered by beds of phragmites reeds that absorb nutrients from the sewage as the major dewatering step. The end result of this process is an accumulation of compost sludge and of course nearly pure water. The compost is a very effective gardening product that is available at the sewer plant.

Before the clean water passes into a pipe and into the Androscoggin, it is channeled through concrete canal structure after being treated with chlorine. During this flow process additional sludge particles are separated in the final dewatering step. After transiting the canal, clean water flows by pipe into the river.

Just prior to exiting the canal system an automatic sampling/test process takes place where a permanent record is stored and transmitted into the plant's computer management network.

1953 Headline News - 60 Years Ago

"Bazaar Nets $750 in Full Day Program"

Last Saturday proved to be a fine day for the 5th annual Bazaar which netted approximately $600 for the Crescent Park School Grounds Improvement and $150 for next year's 4th of July celebration, an approximate total of $750.

Some highlights of the day were: The outstanding parade float was the United Nations "Peace for our children" which showed many hours of labor and time put into it.

Following the parade the supper called the crowd and over 400 were served a delicious baked bean supper. This was put on by the Men's Brotherhood, Congregational Guild, PTA and Girl Scouts.

A corral was erected on the Common where the Happy Herdsmen 4-H Club exhibited the fine animals they are raising the year. The group offered dairy products for sale and did a rushing business throughout the afternoon and evening.

Music for the dance was furnished by Doris and Lawrence Lord, Charles Heino, Bob Tiff, Angelo Onofrio, Marko Lavorgna with Keith Bartlett as vocalist.

A new member of our group was the Bethel Theater which had set up a shooting gallery by the theatre with free passes donated by the theatre as prizes. They proved a very good addition to the Bazaar, and very popular with the crowd until a late hour Saturday.

Remembering Sam Chapman

About 12 years or so ago, Sam and his crew did a tree removal job for us that included old hard pines and an ash tree that had died. Our TV cable ran through the branches of the pines nearest the road. In one case a tree branch had grown around the cable. Sam's solution: cut branch on both sides of cable before cutting down tree. Well that piece of a branch is still there around the cable.

Early last month, I happened to run into Sam and Kathy at the new Bait, Tackle and More store. Sam asked me then if the branch was still in the cable.

Found: an Artist Bridge painting at NABOS

After going through three art shows last week without seeing a single covered bridge painting, it was pleasing to find one Saturday at the newly relocated NABOS store. It is a laser print of the original by Wendy Cannon of Saco, titled "The Artist's Bridge." While chatting with Melanie Carver who was holding the fort at NABOS Saturday, she said that she thought they had others at the store as well.

We thought that the new store layout gave shoppers a better opportunity to see the great variety of stock at the store. Melanie said that shoppers who are visiting Bethel quite often come in looking for something to take with them from Bethel.

Outside the new beds of greens and herbs are getting to the ready-to-pick stage. If you have bought a lobster from the next door Bait, Tackle & More store, then fresh greens for a salad to go with the lobster are at NABOS ready for the picking.

Hiking, Supper and Speech at Bethel Outdoor Adventure

Sunday's supper gathering at Bethel Outdoor Adventure turned into a welcome and celebration for Roger from Winthrop, Maine, and Roni from Wayne, New Jersey; they had just completed the Mahosuc Notch to Route 26 on the Appalachian Trail. Some accomplishment: Roger is blind; he hiked with two walking poles and is also deaf and Roni is deaf. Jeff Parsons gave a speech of welcome, recognition to those campers and staff that had helped support the trek and kudos to all who had participated including campers who had tried to find a way to drive Jeff's jeep with 215,000 miles on it up to a meeting point on the trail. "Molly" Siegel and friends from the BOA end of things helped in trail support as well; Molly was at Sunday night's supper gathering. Read next week's Bethel news for more names and details.

More Hikers

Saturday I met a very pleasant young man at the village sun dial who asked to take my shopping cart back to the store for me. He was part of a hiking group who were loading up before continuing on. When I asked where he was heading he said Georgia - Springer Mountain. I asked him, "All the way". And he said, "Yes." They were pleased to have a sunny day for a change.

Oxford County Mineral and Gem Show at Crescent Park School

This year's show at the Crescent Park gym seemed to be a little more active than previous shows at Telstar; was it due to a slightly smaller room that gave the impression of a larger crowd. On entering the show, the first specimen to catch our eye was a beautiful, large cluster of amethyst crystals. This exhibit was found in Sweden, Maine at the Saltman Quarry and displayed by the Maine Mineral and Gem Museum. The MMGM also exhibited displays in the hallway outside of the main show-room.

Sunday River Gems and Norm Davis were two other major local exhibitors/vendors. This year Mr. Davis is the Vice President of the Oxford County Mineral and Gem Association. Eleanor Davis is the Librarian.

Beth Bean, Sunday River Gems, keeps very busy with setups at virtually all the local area "days," this is the 21st year in business for her gem store. Mrs. Bean told me that the store sees probably its greatest number of visitors during the ski season but that summer vacationers, although fewer in numbers, are usually above average spenders.

The Sunday River Gem store has somewhat of an historic background itself. Part of the building was once sitting about where the Sunday River Inn's front yard is today. It had been the office building for the Latchford and Bryant lumber mill company. Although the mill closed about 1926, I can remember the building being there at least into the 1940s. As a youngster I rode by it on the way to my grandmother's Red House.

High water on the Androscoggin caused some changes in the early part of this year's trek plans. On Saturday, July 13, trekkers were to meet at the Steamer Diamond Landing above Errol Dam. Included with the paddling program, Janet Willie of Bethel was due to present "Yoga for Paddlers."

Right now the canoe trekkers are due to arrive in late afternoon Saturday, Mollyockett Day, at the Bethel Outdoor Adventure. The Gilead to Bethel leg will include Maine Adaptive Ski & Recreation paddlers.

Agenda for the July 15 Bethel Selectmen

There are not any really hot items as far as I can see on the agenda except a decision of awarding the job for manufacture of directional signs. Bids were due last Thursday but the agenda indicates no bids were received.

Other items include approval of the FY 2014 Airport Budget and award of FY '14 paving bids; a Conservation Commission appointment; and a memorandum of understanding with Bethel Water District regarding use of the land abutting Bingham Forest. There are eight other administrative items.

The Maine Loon Project's annual loon count is this Saturday, July 20, at 7 a.m.

More than 800 volunteers will count loons in approximately 326 ponds and lakes in Maine. The Maine Loon Project is a program of Maine Audubon and is dedicated to protecting the loon population here in Maine through education and research. The project also supports legislation that will protect the loon and the loon's environment. For information on the Maine Loon Project, visit www.maineaudubon.org/loons. If you'd like to participate in the loon count, contact Susan Gallo at sgallo@maineaudubon.org or call (207) 781-6180 ext. 216. The loon count is early in the morning, which gives you plenty of time to get to the Mollyockett Day activities.

One of my pet peeves is finding out about an event the day it is happening. For me that usually means missing the event because I can't get off work or make plans. So, here are two upcoming events you might want to make plans for.

On August 9, the Thomaston Place Auction Galleries Appraisal Coach will be on the Waterford Common from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thomaston Place's Kaja Veilleux and John Bottero will do instant, on-site appraisals. The appraisals will be done on a first-come, first-served basis. If your item is too large to bring, detailed photographs can be used to make an appraisal. There is a suggested donation of $10 per item, or 3 items for $25.00. All of the proceeds will be donated to the Waterford Library. The Mobile Appraisal Coach has been featured on Bill Green's Maine and in Architectural Digest. The coach is equipped with a waiting area and appraisal office. Trustees and volunteers from the Waterford Library will have lunches available during the event.

The Perseids Meteor Showers will peak this year the night of Aug. 11 to 12. These are the most exciting meteor showers of the year because of the high number of meteors. This year "peak" night will be "moon free." The moon will set after 10 p.m. on Aug. 11, leaving perfect viewing conditions if the weather cooperates. Astronomers predict that 100 meteors per hour may be visible in the skies over Eastern Europe and northern Asia. In North America, 80 meteors per hour may be visible in the hours just before dawn on Aug. 12. The meteors are small dust particles from the comet 109P/Swift-Tuttle. As the dust hits Earth's atmosphere at 37 miles per second, the friction burns the dust creating the long trails that we call meteors or "shooting stars."

East Bethel

By Wally Ritz

Well, here we are again and I am still melting - hahaha. How about all of you?

Last week, Wednesday, Arlene and Esther went to Bucksport to visit Judy and they came back on Thursday. They ended up taking a ride to Castine and had lunch at the dock. Arlene says she saw one of the biggest ships she ever saw! All had a great time together.

Paul and Kathy Hebert took another trip to Pa. to see old friends and family. Kathy also celebrated her birthday there. Happy belated birthday to you from the neighborhood. Her birthday was great and she told me they climbed 1,000 steps in Jacks Narrows in Mount Union, Pa. It was the trail the miners took every day on their way to work to mine rocks for brick making; it was 1,800 feet high. She and Paul also had dinner on a river boat ride on Raystown Dam. It was a lovely day and that evening they went out to listen to country music. In Pa., there are little gatherings Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays where people just get together and play music. She remembers it so well from when she was a child. Her parents built a living room off of their house, 24 by 24, just for the reason that they could come and visit there comfortably.

Concerning our mock elections for mayor of East Bethel, you need to call me at 824-3220 or e-mail han@megalink.net. We have a tie... all single votes. Thus, we need to have tie break votes.

Enjoy Mollyockett this weekend. Just remember, this year again, most of Main Street will be closed off to traffic for most of the day.

Alder River Grange news: The Grange held a regular meeting July 12 at the Hall with eight members present. The Harvest Supper will be Oct. 5 at 5 p.m., with a price of $8 and still $3 for under 12. The Grange will have a Yard Sale on Labor Day weekend, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 at the Hall in East Bethel. The Grange may also have a sale Aug. 24 along with Neil Olson's Trappers Weekend.

Alder River Grange will join Lakeside Grange for installation of officers on Sept. 14. There will be a pot luck supper at 6:30 p.m. and the installation at 7 p.m. Vicki Huff and her team will do the installing.

Andover

By Jane C. Rich

The Andover Recreation Committee is looking for volunteers tomorrow, Friday, July 19, to help with their restore and revitalize the playground near the tennis courts project. There will be two sessions for this work to be accomplished, 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. The volunteers will be painting, putting together a monkey bars kit and adding two swings. The group will also be putting in a post and rope barrier in front of the playground, so they need some hole-diggers. This event is made possible because the River Valley Healthy Communities awarded a grant to the Andover Recreation Committee.

On Tuesday, July 16, the People in Action Committee served a free community lunch at the CEB. Details for this event will be forthcoming next week.

In addition to the community yard sales advertised for this Friday and Saturday, Barry Martin will be having a yard sale on Saturday and Sunday at his residence at 204 Rumford Center Road, East Andover. The community yard sale participants this Friday and Saturday, July 19 and 20, include the residences at 53 and 71 Pine Street, 630 East Andover Road, 641 South Arm Road, and 79 North Main Street.

For those volleyball enthusiasts remember the outdoor group meets at the field next to Mills Market, on Wednesday and Sunday evenings at 6 p.m.

The Andover Olde Home Day Committee had their final meeting in preparation for the annual celebration on Monday evening. T-shirts and buttons are available at local stores. The three day event, now in its 33rd year begins with the garden judging on Thursday, a band concert on the common on Friday, evening, parade and a host of events all day long on Saturday and a horse show on Sunday at the Ellis River Riders facility on the Airport Road. A new addition this year is the Operation Game Thief Exhibit, with Game Warden Brock Clukey.

My friends at the Upton Union Church reminded me that the Upton Fun Day will be held on August 17. Part of the celebration, will be a dramatic reading of Civil War letters between Steven and Lydia Richards from June, 1864 through August, 1865. This is of interest to Andover people because eventually the Richards migrated down the hill to Andover. The day's activities will conclude with a worship service at 5 p.m. and therefore there will be no Sunday evening service that week.

The Knights of Pythias report that restoration on the Town Hall stage curtain will be done July 23 and 24. The group is paying for this work to be done as a gift to the town. The curtain as we all know is unique and we thank the Pythians for taking on this project.

South Woodstock

By Lolalee Dillingham

It's July 11, 2013 at 6:36 p.m. First on my agenda is to remind all bikers of the 11th. Annual Skunk Run that will be held on Saturday, July 27 at the American Legion Hall, Gore Road, Locke's Mills. Registration will be from 9 a.m. to 10:45 a.m.

Departure time is 11 a.m. Guided 136+ mile tour through Bethel to Errol, N.H., and continuing back to the Legion Hall for roast. A rest stop with fuel, lunch, and restrooms will be provided FREE to run participants along the way. On return from run there will be a Pig and Turkey Roast with ALL the fixings - salads, watermelon, rolls, Brad's famous beans, cold beverages, desserts and more.

$10 per person per event. ALL bikes and groups are welcome. Rain date will be Sunday, July 28, 2013. Check out facebook for updates. From Auburn/Portland, take Route 26 North toward Bethel. From Bethel/N.H., take Route 26 South towards South Paris.

This day's events are in memory of Sardon Morgan and these funds will be for the Sardon Morgan Memorial Scholarship Fund, presented exclusively at Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School or Telstar Regional High School.

July Birthday greetings to Chelsea Coffin, Jane Strickland, Shirley Brackett, Sue Elliott, Becky Mason, Larry Wilday, Greg Hadley, Randy Gladden, Calvin Mason, Tia Gladden, Pearl Hemingway, Wanda Kimball, Terry S. Turner, Gordon Lord, Tausha McAllister, Larry Sprague, Vicky Verrill, Joan Grover, Yogi Dillingham, Jane Lowe Ryerson, Kenny Williams, Brenda Brown, Christine Dillingham, Sandi Lynch, Frank Coffin, Barbara Hartford and Cathy Severance.

We called on our friends, Gladys Lee and Forest Hammond this past Monday forenoon - we were on our way to entertain the residents at the Sandy River Rehab Center in Farmington so we left a little early so we could spend a few minutes with them. They are both well and busy in their garden. It was good to see them even if it was for only a short time.

Get well wishes to those who are not feeling up to par these days.

Family and friends gathered here on the 4th of July for a BBQ and friendship then we headed to Mexico where the band was scheduled for an outdoor summer concert, we were about to set up for the evening when the sky opened up with lightning and heavy rain. So we cancelled and drove home, we all gathered in the garage for some left over BBQ food and spent the evening talking and laughing and just enjoying our time together.

Happy Anniversary wishes to those who are celebrating this month.

That's all from the valley this week as I'm on my way out to the kitchen to make some goodies for band practice here tomorrow.

Locke's Mills

By Betsey Foster

There is now a place in Locke's Mills to sit down and have a sandwich. The Local Hub has several new tables (handmade beauties) to rest your weary body and have a bite to eat. The new menu includes sandwiches, salads, smoothies and juices, and Gifford's ice cream in cones or dishes. Besides these changes, they are now carrying organic meats. These include beef, chicken, turkey, rabbit, and pork. All are from local organic farms and available frozen.

This Saturday is Molycock Day in Bethel - always a good time. Our Greenwood firefighters will have a booth on the Common and be selling fried dough. Check them out and help the cause.

Are you familiar with the Community Lakes Association? It has been around several decades and does a lot to keep the ponds in Greenwood and Woodstock healthy. Comprehensive water quality testing is done on each pond every three years at a cost of about $1,600 every year for two ponds. Clarity and temperature testing is done by volunteers on every pond every year. Plus they have a significant invasive milfoil eradication program. Membership is only $15 a year. Cheap investment to keep our ponds healthy. You can join by sending a check to: Comm. Lakes Association, PO Box 91,

On a hot and sunny July 14, the Roxbury ATV Riders held their eighth annual Xmas in July Toy Run and first-time Al Bodwell Ride to benefit four different organizations in the Andover, Bethel, Rumford and Mexico area for Christmas time and for the Maine Make A Wish Foundation. More than 120 four wheelers and more than 190 people took part. The ride went to the Roxbury wind towers and then travelled throughout many miles of trails the Roxbury ATV Riders maintain throughout the year. Over $1,000, was raised in donations and toys for children at Christmas time and $1,000 was also raised for Make-A-Wish. The next event will be an "Allies for Autism" ride on Aug. 4 and will leave from the Roxbury ATV Park & Ride at 10 a.m. Bracelets, T-shirts and other items will be on sale to support this worthy cause. The water lilies are in full bloom - white, pink, and yellow. It's a good time to take a ride along Round Pond. Do this by day because the lilies close when there is no sun on them. The black-eyed susans, milkweed, and orange day lilies are blooming, the raspberries are ripe at Gibson's, and it is high summer. You know what the high point of anything means. From here it is

Some 20 persons who attended the East Bethel School, which closed in 1968, plus several other invited guests and interested persons were present at the annual "Reunion of the Scholars" held at Alder River Grange #145 in East Bethel on June 30. One of the "stars" of this event was Edna Bean York, age 103 and a half, who was the first teacher in the "new" East Bethel School building constructed in 1928 by her father and wired for electricity by her uncle. "Scholars" were treated to a power point presentation of school groups and activities through the years prepared by Alder River Grange Overseer James Haines. Alder River Grange Secretary Nancy Mercer was in charge of refreshments of punch, sandwiches, brownies and cookies. As this was one of Alder River Grange's community service activities, the Grange 2013 Community Service Award was presented by Lecturer Pro-Tem Stan Howe to Arlene Harrington of East Bethel for her many years of volunteer service to the East Bethel community, particularly in relation to the church and the cemetery. Alder River Grange Overseer and Maine State Grange Deputy Master James Haines also presented Alvin Stevens and Stan Howe with their 55 year member certificates. Donations totaling $52 collected at the Registration Table were received and will be donated to the Bethel Food Pantry, one of several charities supported for many years by Alder River Grange. Here, Howe stands next to York.

This past weekend was just beautiful as far as the weather went. Sunday afternoon turned out to be a little muggy but not completely unbearable.

My brother, Steve McLain, has been taking advantage of the good weather and getting some mowing done. He mows out front of his house near Route 2 so the town sign is visible.

Lise McLain went to the Senior Club lunch at the Mill Hill Inn last Wednesday.

Hugh and I attended a birthday party this past week at Tim and Michele's for one of the grandchildren, Ajay Landry. We also celebrated Michele's mother's birthday at the same time. Those attending were Leo and Ann Creteau, Tim and Michele, William, Annie and Sidney Chapman and Ann's brother, Tom.

Last Saturday, Hugh and I headed for the Oxford County Gem and Mineral Show in Bethel. We had a chance to visit with some of the dealers that were there when Hugh was the Show Chairman. When the show closed, we went out to dinner with Bob and Judy Bishop at Rooster's Roadhouse. They had spent the day working at the registration table at the Gem Show.

Gilead Historical Society We set up for the "Cold Bottled Water Project" this past Saturday. Mary Tyler was there, also. She was working on some genealogy while we sat in the shade under the tent.

PET OF THE WEEK:

MAY LING

"You might describe me as demure. I'm a little reserved and not in your face like some of the other cats around here. I can respect a person's space and still be friendly. My most distinctive features are my big feet and my bushy tail. I like being patted and I enjoy a good conversation. Visit me at Responsible Pet Care and we can discuss your day."

DOB: 2006

Responsible Pet Care of Oxford Hills is a no-kill, non-profit shelter and adoption center for cats and dogs; and the holding area for stray dogs for 12 towns in Oxford County. The shelter has moved to a new location at 9 Swallow Road in Paris. Anyone interested in adopting a pet from RPC can visit the shelter Tuesday-Sunday 12-4 p.m. Most of the adoptable pets and the adoption application can be found online on the shelter's website at www.rpc.petfinder.com.

For answers to questions about adopting or fostering a pet, or to make an inquiry about a lost animal, call Responsible Pet Care after noon at 743-8679.

Now is the time to start thinking of protecting your pet from LYME DISEASE

The best protection against lyme disease is prevention. Give your pet a flea and tick preventative, which can help ensure that an infected tick that attaches itself, dies before transmitting the disease to your pet. The CDC is indicating that we can expect an increase in lyme disease this year.

We had a group of bicyclers who stopped by to chat and check out the buildings. They needed some water since they had just biked up Route 113 and back.

Mason

By Richard Grover

Saturday, July 13, the Grover family hosted a family reunion at "The Farm." This was a very successful get-together, the first in several years. There were descendants of ten of the 11 children of Eli and Ella Grover of Mason Twp. present during the afternoon event. We had a list of more than 120 attendees registered in the guest book, as near as we could tell.

We attempted a composite photo of all relatives present grouped by the Grover son/daughter (of Eli and Ella), listed in descending order of age. Paul, Walter, Verna Grover Thayer, Rupert, Howard, Ernest, Ralph (died without children in 1949), Robert, Stanley, Margaret (Peg) Grover Perham, and Richard, Stanley, Peg and Richard are the surviving siblings.

Attendees came from as far away as California, Idaho, Oregon, Illinois, North Carolina, Colorado, South Dakota, Florida, Vermont, Minnesota and probably other states as well. Ages present ranged from infants to 92! Attractions included lots of food, conversation, hugging, swimming at "The Falls," and even a baseball game organized by Jacob Solmiz. As near as this author could tell everyone thoroughly enjoyed the occasion.

Waterford

By Rocky Graham

Hot and hazy, sticky, irritable and lazy. That about describes these dog days of summer that have followed on the heels of rain, rain and more rain. Bring on the air conditioner! I have a hate love relationship with mine. I need it to breathe on these days, but don't really like the feel and the noise makes it even harder to sleep than the heat. Saying that, I need to take a short break and cool down.

It is almost as hot in as out, except in the one air conditioned room. But as they say, this too shall pass. For now, I will do the important things early in the a.m. and maybe late at night. Saturday at work, I thought David was going to pass out. He looked worse than me. But we both made it through and now we can only hope it gets a little cooler. Five to 10 degrees would be fine with me.

Thursday, July 18 at 10 a.m. ACOA will meet at the Waterford Library. This is a discussion group and all adult children are welcome. FMI please call 739-9115.

Thursday, July 18 at 7 p.m. at Fare Share Commons in Norway, there will be a public interest forum with anti-war activist Lisa Savage. FMI please call 743-2183.

Friday, July 19 to Sunday, July 21, Waterford World's Fair Music. Different bands all day Friday and into Sunday.

Saturday, July 20 and Sunday, July 21, Mollycodd Day in Bethel. Food, displays and entertainment for all ages.

Sunday, July 21 at the Bethel Inn Conference Center from 2 p.m. on there will be a celebration of Sammie Chapman's life. All friends and family are welcome.

That is all for this week. Must go back into the air conditioning. Anyone who wants to send me info can call at 739-9115.

Upton

By Joe Bernier

The Upton Historical Society will meet Sunday, July 28, 3 p.m. at the school. This will be their last meeting before Fun Day. Attendance, ideas, participation in and help on Fun Day would all be appreciated.

The Letter B Notch Riders met Sunday, Upton Fun Day and the club's participation in it were discussed. Due to a scheduling conflict, the August meeting was moved to the first Sunday of the month. The meeting will be Aug. 4, 9 a.m. at the Upton House.

Upton Planning Board will meet Friday, July 26 at the town office.

Almost half of the seed potatoes I planted came up. That is better than I expected considering that it rained for a month and a half.

Maybe next year I will try growing rice.

Bethel Historical Society news

Recent donors to the Society's summer events are Jim and Linda Macgregor, Stanley R. Howe, Richard C. Valentine, Susan and Bill Herlihy, Charles and Betsy Raymond, the Town of Bethel, Barbara Honkala, Bob and Nancy Chadbourne, Mary Eichel, and James and Julia Bennett. Much gratitude goes to these and other supporters who have made this summer's events at BHS possible.

The Bethel Historical Society has long held an interest in promoting an accurate portrayal of Bethel's earliest inhabitant, the western Abenaki — Native Americans who resided in and around what is now Bethel over a period of at least 10,000 years. A more recent representative of these Native people was Molly Ockett, whose name has been connected with the community's summer festival since 1957. Regarding her life in western Maine, one of the Society's first publications was "Bethel's Early Days/Molly Ockett," published in July, 1969. The late Pearl Ashby Tibbets and Rosalind Rowe Chapman wrote much of the text. In 1981, this publication was supplanted by "Molly Ockett," by Catherine S.C. Newell and also published by the Society; a second revised edition was issued in 1991 and retains its status as the most reliable source of information on this well-known Native American. In July 2004, the Society opened one of its most ambitious exhibits, "Molly Ockett and Her World." This exhibit, which is now available online through our website (www.bethelhistorical.org), tells the story of this Abenaki woman of the Pigwacket tribe whose lifetime (ca. 1740-1816) spans an important and particularly tumultuous period in this region's past. Born at Saco, Maine, Molly Ockett (baptized "Marie Agathe") was an itinerant healer and herbalist for both natives and newcomers. She established close relations with the early white settlers in such communities as Andover, Fryeburg, Poland, Paris, and Bethel during the late 18th and early 19th centuries. Such ties enabled her to gain an intimate view of white society as it spread throughout the vast wooded domain long occupied by her ancestors.

The Society will be providing space on the side lawn at the Robinson House (next to the Bethel Library) on Saturday, July 20, for the "Native American Demonstrations" tent that will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. as part of the Molly Ockett Days events. Those participating that day will be: Butch Jacobs, traditional basket maker; hands-on activity all day; Richard Silliboy, traditional basket maker specializing in potato baskets; demonstrations from 11:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. and 2:45 to 3:30 p.m.; Natalie Michelle, herbalist; 1 to 2 p.m.; and Barry Dana, food and agriculture: all day. For more information, please contact the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce at (207) 824-2282 or (800) 442-5826.

Reports were given by Becky Keen and Arlene Lowell. The 50/50 raffle was won by Ruth Sobocinski and the door prize by Sandra Gunther.

The next meeting will be August 13 and will be a picnic at Stony Brook Campground in Hanover. Hamburgers and hotdogs will be provided. Members will bring a salad or dessert to share.

A vote was taken and it was voted to go to Longfellow House July 17. Cost is $10. Bus will leave the Health Center at 8:30 a.m. It was suggested the trip to the Victorian Mansion be made later during the Christmas Season. Price of admission is $13.50.

The speakers were Tricia Cook and Amy Scott from the Western Mountain Alliance, which serves four counties. The purpose is to connect farmers and buyers to have access to local food, also working with them to help them set up a program online. Working with local stores, The Local Hub in Locke's Mills is one; they hope to get more local stores involved. Pamphlets were passed out naming the farms in each county.

July birthdays are: Luna Akers, Nancy Mercer, Robert Taylor, and Peg Perham.

WATERMELON TOURMALINE
DUNTON QUARRY
PLUMBO, MT.
NEWRY, ME.

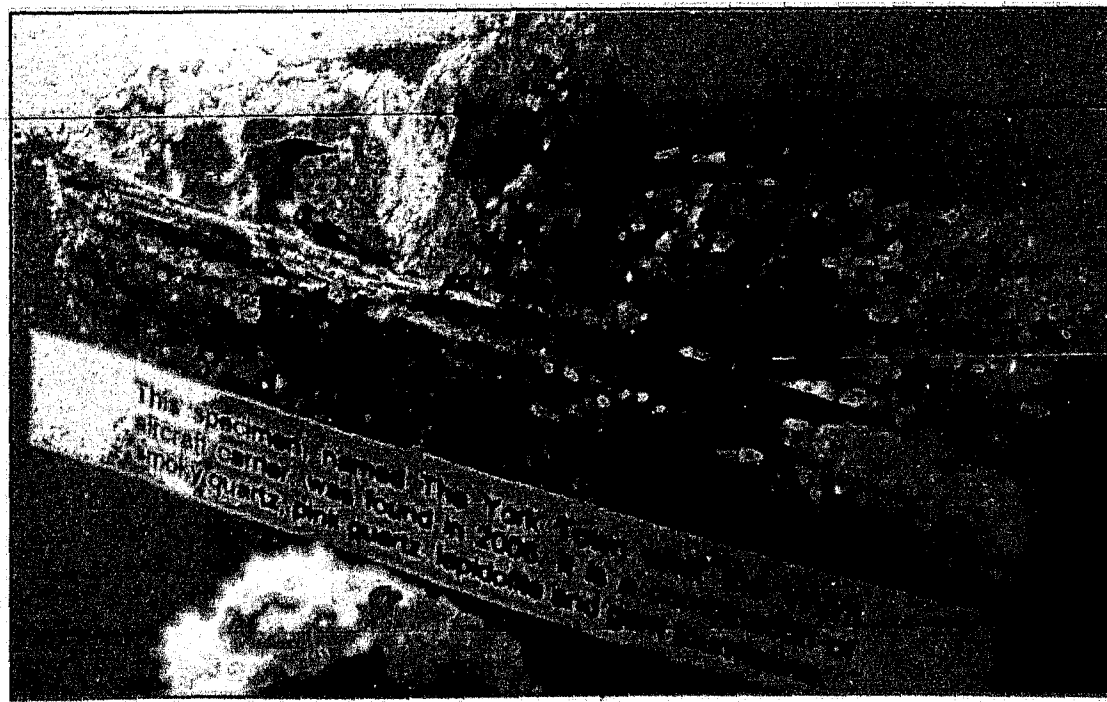

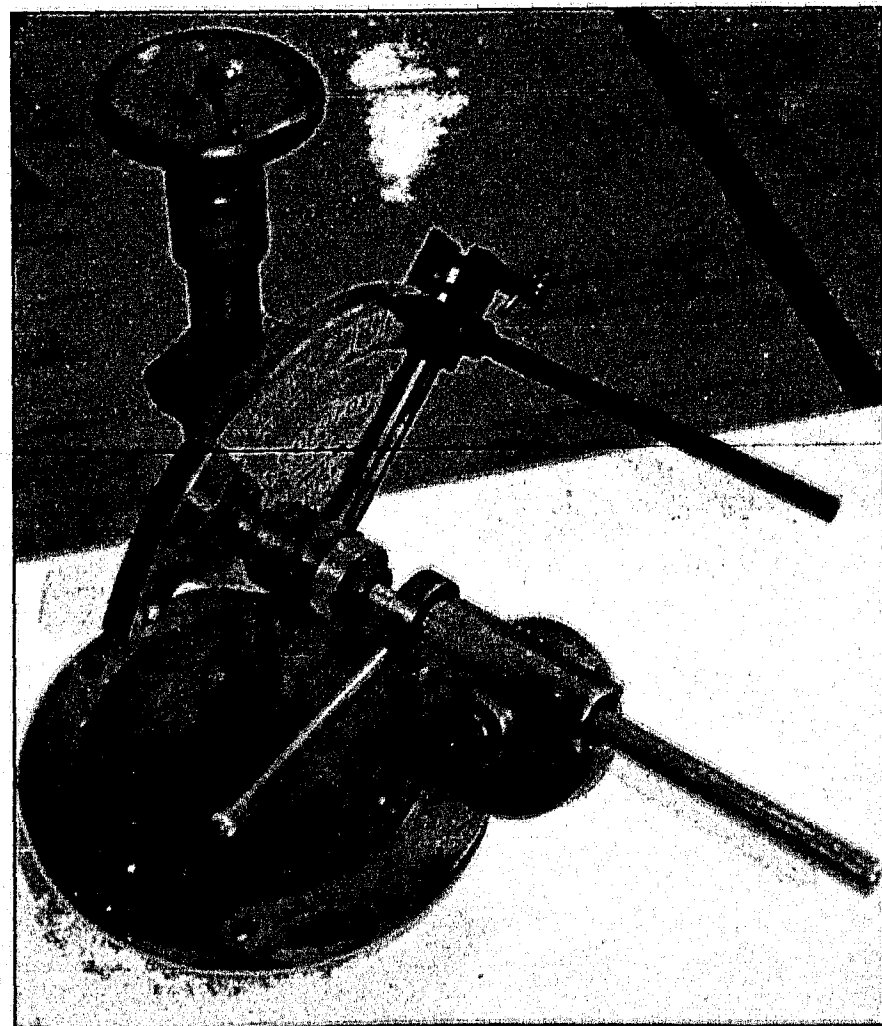

The 52nd annual Western Maine Gem, Mineral and Jewelry Show took place July 13 and 14 at the Crescent Park Elementary School in Bethel. The event included museum-quality displays, demonstrations and door prizes, as well as the offerings of many gem and mineral vendors. Pictured are, clockwise from top, the view in the gym, with the displays of Norm Davis of Newry in the foreground; people look at displays of gem and mineral specimens; tourmaline from Newry a preview of a Newry tourmaline collection that will be displayed at the Maine Mineral and Gem Museum of Bethel; a specimen from Mt. Newry Tourmaline

In the summer of 1972 amateur field collectors made a bonanza discovery of gem tourmaline at the old Dunton Mine in Newry, Maine. The crystals are large with beryllium cores and green rims and tips. A large quantity of cut gems and "watermelon" cross sections resulted. This discovery revitalized the local gem and jewelry business and affected the international market. It also stimulated much prospecting, which continues to this day.
